> CAPTAIN CANOT, UTHOR OF THE GREAT BOOK JUST BE-A ING PUBLISHED, SPEAKS of HAMPTON'S

GREAT OURS OF REFUMATISM CONTRACTED UNDER TROPICAL CLIMATES. BALTIMORE, Md., June 4, 1854. Mr. Stockbridge, of the Fountain Hotel, Light street,

Baltimore-Dear Sir : Being on the point of leaving the city. avail myself of a few idle moments to thank you kindly for the medicine you sent me, and shich has restored me to the use of my limbs. I beg you to send me four bottles more, to carry on my voyage. Since I had the fortune to use Dr. Hampton's Vegotable Tineture my confidence is so strong that, in gratitude o the proprietors of said medicine, I beg you to present my respects to them, and induce them to make it more publicly known as a sure theunatic cure. Having called on me on the 19th f April last, and seen me prostrated on my bed, aseless in all my limbs, you can appreciate nearly as well as myself the prompt relief I received from Dr. Hampton's Tincture, and I am positive had it not been for your strong and forcible recommends.

ions I should still have been in bed. It is really a pity this specific should not be approved by medical men, and like all patent drugs it should suffer the imputation the public generally give to such preparations. I myself, who was all ways opposed to a patented specific, took this medicine with reluctance, and without confidence in it, and it was only through your disinterested, friendly recommendations, and my critical situation that in luced me to try this really beneficial Vegetable

You may inform Messre. Mortimer & Mowbray that they are at liberty to make use of my name in egetable Tincture, as it has cured me in five weeks t a chronic Inflammatory Rheumatism, contracted under tropical climates, and of seven years' periodical duration. I have only used three boitles, and find that even the deformed parts of my hands are fast returning to their former natural appearance. I have been under the treatment of several phyicians in London and Paris, without any apparent penefit; also, while in New York, having tried the Chompsonian and Homopathic remedies, after having been tormented with galvanic batteries, cold and aromatic bathe, and hundreds of internal and external medicines, all to no effect, I am, so far, sured by this Hampton's Vege able Tineture only. Therefore, my dear sir, accept of the assurance of my gratitude, and believe me your well wisher.

BEV. VERNON ESKRIDGE, U. S. N. PORTEMOUTH, VA., Aug. 18, 1861. Mr. J. B Boush-tear sir: While I am, in general, opposed to patent medicines, cender compels me to state that I have great confidence in the virtues of Hampton's Vegetable Tinoture. For several months past I have used it in my family; and in dyspepsia, loss of appetite, dissiness, and general debility, with entire success. So far as my experience extends, therefore, I take pleasure in recommending it to the afflicted as a safe and efficient remedy I am, respectfully, yours,

EVENING STAR CURIOUS EASTERN TALE. There lived in Bagdad a young man of such extreme beauty that he was surnamed the Brilliant. He had also the gift of poesy. Oumen-el-Benine, the wife of the Caliph, El-Oulid-ben-Abd-el-Melik, was so much in love with this young man that she fell sick. She introduced him into her apartment every day and when she feared to be disturbed by the approach of any one, she concealed her lover in a coffer. Such was their daily course. One day the Caliph received a present of a collar of gold garnished with precious stones, with which he was greatly pleased. "I will reserve this for my wife," said he, and immediately he ordered one of his eunuchs to carry the collar to the Sultana. The slave, in going to execute his commission, found the house door open. "What does this mean?" inquired he of himself. So saying he advanced stealthily along towards the chamber, whence proceeded sounds of laughter, and he met the eyes of the young man, who started and became pale as death. With a bound the Sultana pushed him into the coffer; but the slave had seen all. He presented the collar, and said, "Madam, I must demand of you a stone from this jewel." Indignant at such boldness, she exclaimed, "Rude creature, depart from my presence!" The enraged slave went straight to his master and said, "My lord, to-day I found a man in conversation with your wife in such a chamber. At my approach the Sultana hid him precipitately in such a coffer." He then described the piece of furniture. The Caliph was infuriated against the servant for bringing him such a message. "Thou of Brooklyn, N. Y., in a speech recently monday EVENING, January 8, chamber?" "Because my apparel is here," she replied. "May I dare to hope that with which the chamber is furnished?"

Manners, like conversation, should be extemporaneous and not studied. I always suspect a man who meets me with the same perpetual smile upon his face, the same congeeing of his body, and the same premeditated shake of the hand. Give me, the (it may be rough) grip of the hand, and the careless nod of recognition, and when occasion requires the homely, welcome salutation, How are you, my old friend?""

It is useless to dwell upon a scene from which the heart revolts. Few females in this beautiful town were saved that night from insult. The noblest and the beggar-the nun, and the wife and daughter of the artizan-the youth and age all were involved in general ruin. None were respected and consequently few escaped. The madness of those desperate brigands was variously exhibited; some fired through doors and windows; others at church bells; many at the wretched inhabitants, as they fled into the streets, to escape the bayonets of the savages, who were demolishing their property within doors; while some wretches, as if blood had not flown in sufficient torrents already, shot from the windows their own companions, as they staggered on below. What chances had the miserable inhabitants to escape death, when more than one officer perished by the bullets and bayonets of the very men whom a few hours before he had led to

This city contained about 16,000 inhabitants, and had twice before within the space of thirteen months, been subjected to the horrors of a siege, by the "Liberators of the Peninsula." If such a fate awaits the inhabitants of Sebastopol, in the event of its fall, may we not pray that the attack upon it may not succeed?
